

How to Save Any File as a .pdf File

This is especially useful when you have an existing document (such as a Microsoft Word, Publisher or Excel file) that you want people to be able to view over the Internet. It works for any file that you can print from any Windows program! I wrote this very file using Microsoft Word, and saved it using CutePDF.

1. Open the file with the program you normally use.
2. Click "File" | "Print"
3. In the Printer Name drop-down window, select "CutePDF Writer."
4. Click "OK."

Obviously, for this to work you need to have a pdf printer driver installed. This is very easy to do, and there are many such drivers available free on the Internet. Besides CutePDF Writer (<http://www.cutepdf.com/Products/CutePDF/writer.asp>), there is also PDF995 (<http://www.pdf995.com/download.html>).